Please note: 'School' refers to Chatsworth Schools; 'parents' refers to parents, guardians and carers.

This is a whole school policy, which also applies to the Early Years Foundation Stage.

Introduction

The purpose of this policy is to support the implementation of high quality learning and teaching throughout both schools, so that we ensure that every pupil makes the best possible progress and attains the highest academic standards. Effective learning and teaching is a vital part of the whole school pedagogy, implemented effectively by learning and teaching, the curriculum and meaningful assessment all working together and being interlinked.

Hall School Wimbledon is committed to providing a learning environment where all pupils are challenged through high quality teaching, supported by excellent pastoral care. However, achievement covers more than just academic outcomes: we want all pupils to have a passion for learning, to be inspired by their lessons, to learn how to be independent learners who think critically, who are confident and resilient when times are difficult, and who have the drive to pursue interests of any kind beyond the walls of the classroom.

Effective learning and teaching:

- Enables pupils to acquire knowledge and make progress appropriate and beyond their ability
- Enables pupils to be motivated, to apply an intellectual, creative and/ or physical effort, to be interested in their work, and to be able to think and learn for themselves
- Involves well planned lessons and sequences of lessons, through effective teaching methods, activities and time management
- Shows a good understanding of the aptitudes, needs and prior attainment of pupils; ensuring that these are taken into account when planning learning
- Demonstrates good knowledge and understanding of the subject matter being taught
- Utilises effective classroom resources of good quality, quantity and range
- Implements effective assessment strategies to inform teaching and impact on pupil progress
- Utilises effective strategies for managing behaviour and encouraging students to act responsibly
- Supports the promotion of British values, including democracy, the rule of law, individual liberty, mutual respect and tolerance of those with different faiths and beliefs
- Promotes diversity and equality

Effective learning and teaching happens when:

- Pupils demonstrate high levels of enthusiasm; are focused and productive
- Pupils display a desire for more and spark of curiosity
- Pupils ask searching questions
- Pupils are able to self-select the right skill or knowledge required
- Pupils understand their current level of attainment and what they need to do to improve
- Pupils are able to work independently, and demonstrate resilience
- Pupils are all participating and well behaved

The impact of quality teaching and learning is ultimately tested through the progress that pupils make and the outcomes they achieve.

Through an excellent education we aim to:

- Deliver excellent academic outcomes through outstanding teaching
- Develop the necessary character traits that allow every pupil to achieve in a range of contexts
- Prepare pupils for an ever-changing world, with a global mind-set and a respect for diversity

We have a model of learning and teaching, which is a simple way of seeing what works based on a broad base of research and evidence. The model is, however, not a prescription of how to teach.

- Climate and classroom relationships: vision, ethos, aims and values
- Planning: learning sequences and lesson structures
- Home learning: making homework valid and educational beneficial to the learner
- Learning environment and resources
- Pedagogical content knowledge and expertise: high level of subject knowledge,
- Classroom instruction: fulfilling expectations, reviewing previous learning, scaffolding, summarising, practising
- Valid questioning: that develops thinking, that probes and challenges, that promotes discussion, that inspires pupils to ask questions
- Assessment and feedback: formative use of summative assessment, self and peer assessment, diagnostic assessment, pupils responding and demonstrating progress, changing lesson structure, if required

If these are all done well, pupils will succeed academically but also display wellbeing in themselves and for others.

Responsibility

All staff are responsible for ensuring this policy is implemented and acted on. When evaluating the use and impact of this Learning and Teaching Policy, the Head and Deputy Head Academic will evaluate the extent to which there is evidence of:

- The impact of teaching on academic attainment and progress
- The impact of teaching on pupil engagement and passion for learning, capacity for independent and critical thinking, self-awareness and resilience and self-confidence.

Evaluating the quality of teaching

Every teacher is expected to evaluate the impact of their teaching in order to continue their professional improvement.

In evaluating, the following questions are asked:

- How effective is teaching? How do we know?
- What impact is teaching having on learning and progress? What is our evidence?
- What do we need to do next to improve further?

Any evaluation of teaching takes account of a range of evidence, e.g. work scrutiny, lesson observation, analysis of data, feedback from pupils, etc.
